

ASKS CITY FOR SIX THOUSAND

Was Buried in a Sand Pile.

Georgia A. Kendall Files
Her Claim With City Recorder.

She and Her Daughter Were Caught in the Collapse of the Fence at the Federal Building.

Georgia A. Kendall has made a claim upon Salt Lake City for $6000 damages for having been buried under the sandpile outside the new Federal building on September 3. The claim was sent up to the City Recorder's office yesterday and will come up before the Council next Monday night.

In her claim she states that on the afternoon of the day in question she was walking down Main street with her six-year-old daughter, between Third and Fourth South, on the board walk around the Federal building. While they were walking along the walk the fence fell, knocking them down and throwing them to the ground under the sand fence and the sand that was banked up behind the fence. They remained until they were taken out by passers-by.

Her back and both arms were bruised and contused, her right arm was sprained and her shoulder and neck were bruised and contused. For this and the nervous shock and prostration which the accident caused her she wants $6000. For the damage to her little daughter, Mary G. Kendall, which consisted of contusions and lacerations on her back and both lower limbs, she asks $1000.

An order has been made by the Council, at the instance of Councilman Wood, to instruct the Street Supervisor to tell the contractor to have the debris around the Federal building cleared up and to have the fence moved. At the present date everything is exactly as it was at the time of the accident to Mrs. Kendall.

TRoubles of Pickers.

Murray Couple Haul Skeleton Into Courtroom.

Nancy J. Pickers' suit for divorce against her husband, Edward H. Pickers, occupied the greater part of Judge Hall's time in the District court yesterday. Cruelty and failure to support are the charges made by Mrs. Pickers. The arguments and evidence on both sides were submitted yesterday and the court has taken the matter under advisement.

Pickers, who is a printer on the Murray Eagle, had a deal of his past history related in court during the trial. Mrs. Pickers said, while on the witness stand, that he had been married once before he married her and that he deserted his first wife and lived with another woman in Kansas City and St. Louis; that he never married this woman, and his first wife died of starvation and neglect in the East.

She also swore to repeated acts of cruelty upon the part of her husband, saying that on one occasion he had struck her in a fit of rage, while they were driving in a buggy. He was continually calling her vile and abusive names, and several times accused her of infidelity.

One of his habits, she said, was to insist on telling her of his adventures with other women. He told her that he had married a second wife before he met her and that he was not yet divorced from her.

Pickers, on his side, complained that his wife had only married him to secure his property. He swore that she had prevailed upon him to deed his home over to her, shortly before bringing this divorce suit, and that she had done it with that end in view. He denied all the charges she had made against him and said that he had only accused her when he had reason to suspect her. He said that he had left her because she could not live with her any longer, as she made his home unbearable for him.

Mrs. Pickers complained that since last April her husband had not given her any money or provided for her in any way, and he on his part says that she had his home, which he had deeded over to her. The decision will be handed down tomorrow.

McCune Sues for a Divorce.

John McCune has filed suit in the District court against Mary McCune, his wife, for a divorce on the ground of desertion. He alleges in the complaint, which was filed yesterday, that they were married in Salt Lake City on January 25, 1904. On December 5, 1903, he alleges, McCune deserted his wife, without cause, and has refused to live with her ever since. He says that on the 20th of May, 1903, he went to his residence in Europe, and that he has not heard from her since that time. He asks for a divorce and for the return of his property.

Supreme Court Proceedings.

The Supreme court heard the following cases yesterday: P. T. Elwell vs. George Morrow et al.; Thomas Mannan, Intervenor and appellant. The arguments were submitted and the case was taken under advisement. E. J. Wilson, trustee, vs. Anderson-Taylor company et al.; Nancy J. Nichols vs. Oregon Short Line Railway company. These cases were heard, submitted and taken under advisement. The cases of Allan G. Lamson, appellant, vs. Hays and John Butters, and of John Butters et al. vs. Allan G. Lamson were consolidated and a motion to dismiss the appeals was taken under advisement.

Court Notes.

August Fishers was granted a decree of divorce by default from his wife, Minnie Fishers, by Judge Hall yesterday afternoon. They were married in Great Falls, Mont., in June, 1899. The ground for the suit was desertion, as the plaintiff said that on August 1, 1902, his wife left and has lived apart from him ever since.

Victoria Harvey was granted a divorce by Judge Hall yesterday from her husband, William P. Harvey. The case went by default and was on the ground of desertion. They were married on April 2, 1903, and in July of the same year, three months later, Harvey deserted his wife.

RIDES THE BLIND BAGGAGE.

Boy Tourist Crosses the Continent at Record-Breaking Speed.

Isaac Goldberg is touring America on blind-baggage platform at the tender age of 16 and doing it successfully. Young Goldberg, who is one of the few to have "beaten" the Lake Shore flyer limited, blew into Salt Lake City yesterday. He is on his way to San Francisco. "I dropped off de train," said the youth

ON THE EATING OF OVER-

The Rule of Choosing the Lesser of
Two Evils Applies to the Way You Eat.

I want to know how a man is to know when he has had enough? The Pilgrim Fathers, I believe, had a quaint saying to the effect that you should always rise from the table feeling as if you could eat some more. But the question is, how much more? Just when to stop? That's the point.

The rule is wrong, because it's no rule at all.

It is incorrect and unsatisfactory. It is likely to lead to the dangerous habit of eating too little.

And eating too little—or digesting too little, which amounts to the same thing—is the cause of nine-tenths of the diseases from which humanity suffers today.

What is disease? It is simply an uneven balance between waste and repair.

Some organs lack strength to carry on the special work for which it was created.

Where shall it find the strength it lacks?

In drugs? Ten thousand times NO! Better die than become a hopeless drug fiend.

No! In food. "But," you say, "I eat a plenty of good food every day."

True, dear friend; but you don't digest it. And food, undigested, is mere poison.

So, to make food do you good, you must take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The great thing about Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is that their action does not depend upon stimulative drugging.

They cannot create a habit. They merely restore your system to "kick you up," "tone up your nervous system," or furnish white energy, by calling out your vital reserve force.

They create new strength, force and energy—out of your food.

If taken sparingly, they will do you no good at all.

So, eat to live, and live to eat, with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The curse of our present civilization is exhaustion.

And exhaustion, whether of brain, nerves, physical strength, or vital force, is caused by starvation.

Of two evils, it is better to overeat and prevent indigestion with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, than to rise from the table, not having eaten enough to repair the exhaustion of your vital forces.

For exhaustion or starvation leads to the most varied forms of sickness or disease, brought on by inability of the weakened vitality to counteract the disease-poisons.

Whereas the well-fed and well-nourished person, without ever feeling the worse for it, can expel poisons to the danger, the more thought of which would drive the weak, starving dyspeptic into a panic fit.

Good food, well digested, is the great secret of a healthful existence here on earth.

So eat heartily, every day, of the best food you can get, and regulate the working of your digestive machinery with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

As a result, you will be astonished to find how much stronger and livelier you feel, how much more and better work you can do, how much more pleasure you will get out of life, and how your old enemy, that chronic trouble which has fastened upon your weak spot, wherever it is, will up and away, and never return.

There's more truth than poetry in all this. Try it once.

In a mixture of Mulberry street slang and Hebrew vernacular, "an' a guy he says, 'not yer doin' sonny, got any money?'"

"An' I says, 'no, no, no, I ain't got none.'"

"An' de guy says, 'Well, here's a dollar, yer a sandy kid.'"

"An' he says, 'I had fifty bucks in me pocket. So help me, I guess dat's poor.'"

Young Goldberg worked in a shoe factory. He saved some money and made up his mind to come West.

But dey says forty-eight-fifty for a ticket to Chicago, an' I says 'nail. Say, I climbed in de tool box behind de tender an' I rew out de tools, an' I landed in Chicago. An' a bull he landed on me wen I lit in de yards. But he let me go, an' I made Denver in a week. Den I made dis town in two days, an' I'm goin' on to Erie."

Although the boy is smooth-faced and small of stature, he has made more than half the width of the continent in what would be record time for any hobo of long experience. He says he is going to work on the coast. When interviewed he was on his way up Second South to find a cheap lunch counter.
